Description

- Charming piece of folk, vernacular, country furniture oozing character. - It was most likely intended as a love token or to commemorate a child as there is not much wear on the underside of the legs so it has not been used as a seat and it would only be practical for use by a young child.

- A sculptural conversation and statement piece. - Exceptionally rare, I have not seen another. - In original condition.

An exceptionally rare 18th century fruitwood three legged stool with a 1" or 2cm thick heart shaped top on three splayed legs. Exceptional original colour and patina.

Provenance : Jane Summer Collection Measures: Length 23cm, width 19cm, height 25cm.
